

An Interview With GOD

WHAT WILL YOUR RESUME HAVE TO SAY

David Roberts

Copyright © 2013 by Powerful Word Publishing

An Interview With God
What Will Your Resume Have To Say
David Roberts

All rights reserved by Powerful Word Publishing

This book or any portion, excluding Bible quotes, may not be reproduced or used in any manner whatsoever without the express written permission of the publisher except for the use of brief quotations in a book review.

This book is a work of fiction. Names, characters, businesses, places, events and incidents are either the products of the author's imagination or used in a fictitious manner. Any resemblance to actual events or locales or persons, living or dead, is entirely coincidental.

Printed in the United States of America

First Printing, 2013

ISBN: 978-0-9829952-2-8

Powerful Word Publishing
P.O. 863
Norton, Va. 24273

www.powerfulwordpublishing.com

Introduction

In today's society, there is a widely popular theory that everyone, including Christians, should sit back, do nothing, and remain silent about what others are doing.

This way of thinking is continued even when these activities are obviously and openly against the will of God. The beliefs held by many of these individuals are quite similar and simple: if it isn't affecting me or concerning my family and me, then I frankly don't care about it.

As Christians, we are supposed to be Christ-like in all that we do; this does mean everything. Surely any and every Christian would agree that Jesus Christ traveled abroad to spread the word of God. He showed people what was right and wrong, expected them to listen (this raised numerous questions from the folks to whom he witnessed), and yes, even taught about what would happen if they didn't repent of their evil lifestyles.

Once again, Christians are to be Christ-like, to take on the armor of Christ; we are to be representatives of our heavenly Father and we are to do the same pertaining to God's teachings. If others want to disagree with that statement, please pray for them, because they are lost.

If Christians were to apply this new-age theory, that is, to say or do nothing when we see wrong, then we would not be doing what God wants of us. As children of God, we have a responsibility in Christ to take a stand and

An Interview With God

Speak up for our Father in heaven. Don't become worried about the people in this world who are offended by us speaking up, because in most cases, they're the ones who are in dire need of instruction. Any preacher who has ever delivered a powerful sermon has stepped on a few toes.

For everyone else, including fellow Christians, who honestly believes we shouldn't say anything to anyone when they're doing wrong in the eyes of God, then let me leave you with a very powerful thought to ponder.

If you truly feel that other people's actions are of no concern to you, especially if they aren't hurting you or your family, then please, reconsider your opinion after reading this book. If this story doesn't get your attention, let me know, and sincerely, I'll keep you in my prayers.

Most everyone understands that when we go before the Lord on judgment day we will be judged according to our faith and works while we were alive, and rightfully so. But what you are about to read here is God's judgment seen from another perspective, one that isn't usually thought about, but one that does need to be given careful consideration in your walk with Christ.

You are now about to witness someone going before the Lord on judgment day. As this interview begins, we are reminded of what the Bible says in 2 Corinthians 5:10:

For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ; that every one may receive the things done in his body, according to that he hath done, whether it be good or bad.

INTRODUCTION

Please read this book with an open mind and heart. The story you are getting ready to embark on is much like our Lord's story and at times it may leave you feeling confused by his actions. Just remember to keep reading, because as always, our God has a reason for his decisions.

It's important for you to read this tale in its entirety to understand its profound meaning and life-changing motive fully.

Warning: this story will be very intense at times, but then again we are talking about the almighty Lord. Our loving Father is full of love, kindness, forgiveness, and yes, he can have a raging temper; wrath if you will. The destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah and the flooding of the earth are only two of the major Biblical events backing up that statement. So please keep that in mind while you witness up close, as this interview will shortly take place.

Be ready to have your attention grabbed, as with every turn of the page, this person's resume will unfold and will reveal an ending that is certain to have an impact on your everyday life. I'm stressing to you now that most of these names are of pure fiction. They could be anyone, but this scenario could be reality, and it's possible... it could be yours.

CHAPTER 2

Seeing the Signs

“Alright Richard, enough about that stuff when you were twenty, let’s look ahead a little further into your life. Before we move forward, do you have any questions you would like to ask me at this time?”

Being a tad nervous, hesitating ever so slightly, Richard calmly replies, “No God, I don’t have any questions.”

Not wasting a single second, God continues, “Okay, well then I want to ask you about when...”

Suddenly, Richard finds his hidden bravery and interrupts, “God, certainly you didn’t expect me to be perfect, or to not to make mistakes, did you?”

With an immense smile, one that sends a ray of light shining beyond the pearly gates, God speaks candidly. “Richard, I didn’t presume for anyone else to be perfect. I only planned that to happen with one man, as it did... if you get my drift. And yes, I knew all of my children would make mistakes. I’ve known that since the time I created Adam and Eve, back when they were deceived in the Garden of Eden.”

Rolling onward, God stares determinedly at Richard and begins to speak. “Now I want to talk about an occasion when you were twenty-three. I am hoping you’ll remember this situation a lot better than you did with Randy at the gas station that day.”

If able to sweat, right now Richard would be doing so rigorously while waiting for God to explore this sector of his life. Pulling out a piece of paper from within the folder, God brings up someone from

An Interview With God

Richard's past. "You once worked with a woman named Cindy; do you happen to know who I'm talking about?"

This time, however, Richard easily recalls a woman of that name with whom he used to work. God, being the almighty Lord, already knows his heart, but by the look on Richard's shaken face, without a doubt, the name Cindy is not a word from a foreign land.

Locking eyes in a stare down, one that God will never lose, Richard sits there waiting for our Lord to question his actions at that particular point in his life.

As the piercing glare from God silently slices Richard's confounded spirit in two, Richard ventures back upon that era in his life. Though Richard was a young man, he was wise enough beyond his years to make some different decisions than he did.

Now that God feels Richard has embraced that memory, he begins to speak steadily, yet still with authority. "You know well who I'm talking about don't you?"

Not being able to look at God any longer, Richard shamefully turns his head away in a subconscious attempt to hide, though sitting right before the Lord. Speaking with direct force, commanding respect, God says, "Look at me when I'm talking to you. Now you don't have to say a word Richard. I know good and well you don't need any sort of help in uncovering any buried thoughts about who Cindy is, or should I say... was!"